IN MEMORY OF [REDACTED] [STORY TIME]

What I am about to share with you might be one of the greatest stories not in any SCP roleplay game, but the greatest drama in the world. I have witnessed it in full and I have to say it can make even the manliest of men cry. [REDACTED] was a thinker, a fighter, a kind of guy we look up too when everything looks down. He was our lord and savior that praised in the [REDACTED] zone in site 81. He was not a god, he was a legend. But alas, Those nasty little D Bois came with their knives to try and end his whole carrier. We tried to fend them off, one by one, they kept on coming. We call in the reinforcements, the hammers and betas, (not the NTF they were too busy worrying about the scary white men) but their attacks were relentless. They will hellbent on ending [REDACTED] and they did. They won. With one final blow [REDACTED] was no more, just a cracked figment that we once knew. We carried his corpse to the [REDACTED] and we said our final goodbyes. Rest in piece [REDACTED] you were one of the best..
